

Product introduction

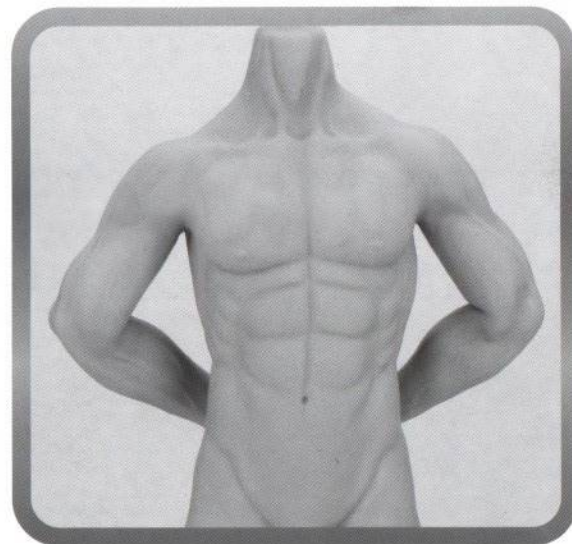

1:6 seamless male body sculpture is an epoch-making human body simulation model developed by photographers, sculpturers, stylists, mechanical engineering and material experts over years of hard research and design. the produt is 180cm tall and weighs 75kg, the development succeeded after tens of thousands of tests and sample research. Human bone structure analysis based on human anatomy is combined into the whole production process. integrating multiple modern technical research schievevements, such as male body robust effect design, fine sculpture and modeling of surface details, human joints modeling, core skeleton structure system research and development, full rubber coating material proportion concoction, ultra-precise assembly process design and modern human body art design. it plus human body structure science and hi-tech precise material process, has produced an unprecedented precision for human skin texture. the 1:6 seamless male body sculpture has an over 90% similarity to the true skin. the whole skeleton of the product is made of ace gal material basically used for aerospace. it is built by strict and precise production process. medical grade avirulent environmental protection material isused for the surface, making the product adequately tenacious, the inner skeleton anti-corrosion and external material anti-aging, easy for cleaning and maintenance. what's specially worth mentioning is the 28 moving joints of the product is also made of aerospace acegal, making it hard and durable. the joints, most of which are ball joints, have a great flexibility, and can perfectly simulate 95% of human movements and produce various gestures and models.

the product has a wide scope of use. it is not only a quality work of human body art, and can also have the following use. for example, it can be used by movable model lovers: it can make various gestures and match various clothes for DIY creation; photographing industry: used by the photographers to set postures fashion industry: it can be used to replace the true model for clothes display and greatly save marketing cost ; advertisement industry: used for true human effect creative design. education industry: used for fine art college art modeling and human skeleton sketch games industry: used by the modeling expert for role setting and movement design therefore, either you are a sculpture, painter, game modeler, advertising designer, fashion manufacturer, photographing lovers, or you are a drt work collector, you can always get a contentment and shock from 1:6 seamless male body sculpture.
